

TELECOMMUNICATIONS SERVICE PROGRAM

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

5 A method of deploying a telecommunications service implemented in a service graph formed from a plurality of service independent building blocks includes developing the service graph from a plurality of service independent building blocks interconnected to execute a service process. From the service graph, a service script is generated and the service script is transferred to a customer.